Upland approves boost in sewer rental charges

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Upland homeowners will pay 25 percent more in sewer rental charges this fall under the rate increases approved Monday night by the city council.

Owners of single-family homes will be charged $2.25 per month compared to the current $1.80 rate. The new charge will show up as a $4.50 entry on water bills mailed every other month.

City Manager Lee Travers said the new rates are scheduled to go into effect on October's bills.

He noted the new rates continue the city's policy set last year of passing along annual, incremental increases to avoid any single, large jump in the sewer rental charges.

"The costs of processing sewage through the regional contract continue to go up rapidly, and our costs of maintaining the sewer system continue to escalate," Travers said.

"This will not meet the escalation of costs this year. We will be reducing our fund balance even with a recommended 25 percent increase."

Upland's sewage is treated at regional plant No. 1 of the Chino Basin Municipal Water District in Ontario.

The charge for each unit of an apartment building and each mobile home will be $1.35 monthly. Owners of apartments and mobile home parks currently pay $1.10.

The rate for duplexes and condominiums will be $1.91 compared to the current $1.53 charge.

The basic rate for businesses, manufacturing plants and offices will be $2.25 a month with an additional 56 cents for each water closet over two.

The current basic rate for businesses is $2.66 a month for one toilet and 66 cents extra per additional toilet.

Many businesses will pay less under the new rate because the flow factor in gallons a day has been reduced in this category.

Lower occupancy of apartments and other residential units accounts for their rates being under the $2.25 charged for single-family homes. Rates were determined on a formula comparing sewage flow for various uses.

Under a federal mandate in the Clean Water Act, Upland adjusted its rates last year so that industrial users not be subsidized by disproportionately higher rates for residents.

Based on examination of their effluent, 15 users will pay substantially higher rates than other businesses. The list includes three hospitals, three citrus houses and a variety of industrial businesses.

San Antonio Community Hospital will pay the highest rate, $899.93 a month compared to the $813.51 it currently pays.

Rates for restaurants are determined according to the number of square feet in each business.

In other action, the council approved annexation of 107 acres on the south side of 20th Street between Benson and Mountain avenues.

Upland dump closed to public

Upland's dump is filled to capacity and has been closed to the public.

Mike Matlock, assistant city manager for public services, said Thursday the city stopped issuing passes in January in anticipation of the dump site, located on the east side of Campus Avenue between 14th and 15th streets, reaching capacity.

However, he noted domestic and limited commercial-industrial passes good for a year enabled dumping to continue.

The remaining passes will be formally revoked by the city council Monday night, Matlock said.

Upland's long-range plans for the site have been to build a sports park there. Continued settling of the landfill precludes placing permanent structures at the site.

Limits to be revised on east-west streets

New speed signs due in Upland

Upland has begun posting new speed signs for east-west streets south of Foothill Boulevard as the first phase of a citywide revision of speed limits.

Wary motorists will notice that in most instances where changes occur the legal limits will be increased slightly.

Capt. Merle Arneson of the Upland Police Department said that in cases where the speed limits are reduced drivers will be given warnings rather than citations just after the changes for traveling at the old limits.

Peter Liu, the city's traffic safety engineer, said Upland began its citywide speed survey this January and hopes to complete speed-zone revisions in three phases by the end of the year.

The main purpose of the revisions is to set what Liu called "realistic speed zones" placing the majority of drivers within the legal limit.

Upland hopes to reduce the number of traffic accidents by having more drivers traveling at close to the same speed when at the same location, Liu explained.

The city created the traffic engineering division with the engineering department last year, and the citywide speed survey is Upland's first.

In determining the speed limits, Liu said the city takes into account street width, traffic volume, sight distance for possible visual obstructions and accident history.

He noted that unless these factors call for a lower limit the maximum legal speed is geared to the "85th percentile," a state guideline.

The 85th percentile is the limit at which 85 percent of motorists travel at that speed or slower. Liu said radar equipment paced the speed of about 150 vehicles at each location and the findings were fed to a computer to reach this number, also called the "critical speed."

The speed limits are set using 5 mph increments and where the critical speed falls between multiples of five, the lower speed limit will be used.

Liu noted speed surveys are required by law to set limits other than 25 mph in residential and business areas or 55 mph in unposted, undeveloped areas.

Capt. Arneson said police have been tolerant in enforcing the 25 mph limit where most drivers are traveling 35 to 40 mph because citations "would probably be thrown out of court" under the critical speed guideline.

Most drivers find the higher speed reasonable "so it can't be that bad" for safety, he added.

Law requires a speed survey once every five years for the findings to be valid in court for setting a legal limit, Liu said.

Near schools signs will carry a 25 mph limit as the maximum speed when children are present. In the Upland Town Center, the existing limit will be reduced from 25 to 15 mph.

City crews will work their way north from Seventh Street, putting up the new speed limits and replacing wood posts with galvanized metal.

The new speed limits are:

— Seventh Street: Benson Avenue to Mountain Avenue, 35 mph; Mountain to 11th Avenue, 30 mph; 11th to city limits, 40 mph.

— Eighth Street: Benson to San Antonio Avenue, 40 mph; San Antonio to Euclid Avenue, 35 mph; Euclid to Sultana Avenue, 30 mph;

Sultana to 11th, 35 mph; 11th to city limits, 40 mph.

— Ninth Street: Benson to Mountain, 40 mph; Mountain to Euclid, 35 mph; Euclid to Third Avenue (town center), 15 mph; Third to city limits, 35 mph.

— Arrow Highway: Benson to Euclid, 40 mph; Euclid to 11th, 30 mph; 11th to city limits, 40 mph.

— San Bernardino Road: Arrow Highway to 11th, 30 mph; 11th to Grove Avenue, 35 mph.

— Eleventh Street: Benson to San Bernardino Road, 35 mph.

Liu said new speed signs from the second phase of the survey, mainly Foothill Boulevard to 16th Street, are expected to be installed in about two months.

The engineering department is also conducting a separate evaluation of speed limits of the computerized traffic control on Mountain Avenue, he added.

Restaurant business lures teacher, actress

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

A former school teacher and an amateur actress are now running Oliver's Restaurant, 1869 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland.

Gene and Maureen Smith of Ontario have bought the dinner house and have changed it into a luncheon and dinner house.

Other changes include having a salad bar and some delicious desserts.

"I love desserts," Smith said, "and I'm the kind that will eat dessert before dinner — so when we bought Oliver's having desserts was a must."

Smith had been a teacher at Magnolia Elementary School, but decided he wanted to do something else with his life. "Even though I love little people," he said.

So Maureen and Gene Smith are active owners and Gary and Rosalyn Simpson are limited partners in Oliver's operation. "I didn't know anything about the restaurant business, but I love to eat. I figured if I put some energy into it, we'd succeed," Smith said.

When Maureen Smith isn't performing in shows at the Gallery Theater, Ontario, or Valley Community Theater, Pomona, she acts as hostess. Currently, she is Bloody Mary Friday and Saturday nights in "South Pacific" at the Gallery Theater.

The Smiths knew it was necessary to surround themselves with those who do know about the restaurant business. Brain Finn is the chef. Mark Walliser is bar manager and Jeff Higley is floor manager.

Entertainment by guitarist Doug Miller is provided Friday and Saturday nights in the lounge. "They'll play requests from 'Over the Rainbow' to rock," Smith said.

A specialty in the dining area on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights is the "wandering magician," Paul West of Ontario.

"Paul table hops with his act and he's marvelous — he won't make a pest of himself if diners aren't interested in magic," the owner said.

Lunches are served weekdays from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Dinner hours are 5 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 5 to 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 5 to 9:30 p.m. Sundays.

"The bar is open from 11 a.m. to midnight or could be 2 a.m. It depends on the crowd," Smith said.

The Smith's son, Adam, 13, acts as salad bar manager, and their daughter, Christi, takes her turn as hostess.

Oliver's is designed to be an old English eating house. The lounge is large with the bar resembling a pub. Comfortable chairs circle the fireplace. There are booths and high tables with stools. The dining area is split up into three cozy rooms featuring booths in dark wood.

There's an aura of friendliness at Oliver's added to the well-served, good food. Diners seem to have the choice of being alone or becoming involved with others.

Such as the night a group of eight came in from Riverside. The men were dressed alike and when Smith asked them why, burst into song — they were the New Spirit barbershop quartet. Before they left, the singers serenaded customers, including Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Pentecost of Chino, dining out to celebrate Pentecost's retirement.

Smith doesn't guarantee barbershoppers every night, but he does recommend the house's specialty of crab claws, scampi and an unusual rice pilaf, chicken char-broiled in teriyaki, and steaks, lobster, halibut and a shrimp kabob...and of course, the delicious desserts.

Children's programs scheduled

The Children's Section of the Upland Public Library will present five special programs during the month of August.

The Friends of the Upland Library will sponsor a puppet show on Aug. 22 at 10 a.m. at the Upland Elementary School Auditorium. The guest performers will be the Riede Marionettes. This program is part of the Passport to Adventure Reading Game. All youngsters are invited.

On Aug. 29 at 3 p.m. at the Upland Public Library, puppeteer Betty Maxie will demonstrate the art of making puppets.

All of these programs are free. The Upland Public Library is located at 450 N. Euclid Ave. For further information call 982-1561.

Practice put-out

A controlled burn of several structures in south Upland Tuesday morning gave West End firemen a chance to train on fighting blazes. Two firemen work to control a burning house on Seventh Street between First and Second avenues. Although controlled burns are normally not allowed this time of year because of poor air quality, the South Coast Air Quality Management District approved a special request by the Upland Fire Department, according to a SCAQMD spokesman. (Staff photo by Craig Swanson).

Give Tuesday afternoon

Donors are needed at blood drive

The Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties will conduct a blood drive Thursday, Aug. 9, from 2:30 until 6:30 p.m.

The drive will be held in the Aita Auditorium of San Antonio Community Hospital. Residents of the area are asked to participate in this program and take advantage of this opportunity to donate blood.

Blood donors with all types of blood are needed. Despite continued efforts by the Blood Bank to increase donor activities and encourage summer blood donations, the blood supply in San Bernardino and Riverside Counties continues to be a matter of concern.

The drawing scheduled at San Antonio Community Hospital Aug. 9 is a community drawing for the convenience of those residents that wish to donate blood or have thought that they would like to some day. This is the day. All donors are needed. Community members are asked to replace the blood used by family and friends. Blood has been available in the past. Support of this drawing will guarantee that blood will be available in the future.

Anyone with questions regarding blood or wish more information, is in-

Tax forms assistance

West End Senior Citizens Service, 215 W. C St., Ontario is offering help to area residents trying to determine if they are qualified for property tax or rent assistance or who want help filling out claims forms. Those planning on donating at this drawing should be in good health, with no history of hepatitis, jaundice, heart disease or diabetes requiring insulin. You must weigh at least 100 pounds and be between the ages of 17 and 66 and 17-year-old donors must have parental consent. Some form of positive identification will be required, preferably a Social Security number. For further information please contact San Antonio Community Hospital at 985-2811 or the Blood Bank in San Bernardino at 885-6503.

Changes in the state's property tax law will increase the number of renters and homeowners who qualify for rent and property tax assistance. The law allows assistance to renters and homeowners with up to $12,000 total household income.

Totally disabled and blind persons regardless of age are allowed assistance as long as they meet the other requirements of the law. Renters filing for the first time should bring proof of age and income information. Homeowners need a copy of their 1978-79 property tax bill, proof of age and 1978 income record. Owners and renters who have previously qualified do not have to show proof of age but must bring all of the other documents.

For further information contact the group at 988-6015.

Long-distance flights cheaper than shorter ones

By RICHARD PERAZA
Staff Writer

Airline passengers who commute short distances probably pay substantially more per mile than long-distance travelers.

Increasing fares on short commuter flights contrast sharply with the numerous discounts now being offered on lengthier air excursions.

During the past two years, airlines slashed prices of long-distance travel, hoping to attract new customers. But short-distance commuters found transportation costs steadily climbing.

Air California, for example, increased the fare on its Ontario to Oakland flights by more than 44 percent, from $27 to $39, during the past 18 months. The latest fare hike was effective Saturday.

On the other hand, United Airlines recently offered a $100 coast-to-coast trip, a substantial discount off the regular $264 one-way fare.

Airline officials say operating cost is the main reason for the differences.

"The main thing about commuter fares is the per mile seat cost is much greater," said Richard Biggs, director of community affairs with the small Golden West Airlines.

Fares on smaller airlines with shorter routes are "pretty much based on operating costs totally," Biggs said. And with rising fuel costs that have motorists swearing at the pumps, Biggs said he wouldn't be surprised to see most airlines increase rates another 6.6 percent within the next two months.

"I think the airline industry as a whole right now is experiencing tremendous increases in fuel costs and that item alone necessitates an increase in air fares," said Mark Peterson of Air California's public affairs department.

Fuel costs, he said, have increased about 29 percent in just over two months.

Some discounts on commuter flights are available, although some passengers complain they are difficult to obtain.

Air California offers a 15 percent discount in conjunction with its special tour packages. Aimed at the California tourist, the packages include car rentals, hotels and air fare, he said.

In addition, Air California offers special fares to several other destinations, a discount of 33 percent to travelers who make reservations and pay a week in advance.

One passenger complained, however, that he attempted to make economy fare reservations three months in advance and was told all economy fare seats had been sold on the flight he wanted.

According to Air California officials, each flight for which the discount is offered has a quota, based on how many full fares it normally gets. Left over seats are then sold at the discount rate. Therefore, the percentage of low fare seats available on any route depends highly on its popularity.

Pacific Southwest Airline also offers discounts on its flights out of Ontario. But unlike those on Air California, the discounts apply only to flights on selected routes.

Presently, PSA offers discounts on flights to Reno and Las Vegas. The normal one-way Las Vegas $34 fare is reduced to $28 and the one-way $47 Reno fare is reduced to $34. Discounts are offered Monday through Thursday and Saturday.

Golden West, meanwhile, doesn't offer discounts.

Short flights are more expensive to operate, according to Air California's Peterson, because "in a long haul you can fly at higher altitudes and that is more fuel efficient."

Smaller planes flown by commuter airlines cost more per passenger to fly than the new jumbo jets, says Golden West's Biggs.

70 students get 'hands-on' FAA training

More than 70 Mt. San Antonio College air traffic management-control students have worked in Federal Aviation Administration throughout Southern California over the past eight years.

The cooperative program between MSAC and the FAA gives the students hands-on training in FAA towers, radar control centers and flight service stations.

Started at the college in 1971 by aeronautics instructor Wesley Galloway, the program included a work-experience session in the summer. Then in the fall of 1972, the program was expanded to include the regular fall and spring semesters as well, giving students the opportunity to work under direct supervision of the permanent FAA facilities personnel all year long.

At one time recently, seven of the nine controllers in Brackett Tower were MSAC graduates.

Brackett Facility Chief Jack Nelson said the MSAC students have been the "most dependable, adaptable and conscientious trainees" he has ever supervised.

"They are totally and thoroughly interested in air traffic management, and are eager to learn all they can about the operations. This dedication is a direct result of their excellent training in the classrooms and labs at the college," Nelson said. "Mt. San Antonio has sent us great people. I've seen their work at both Brackett and Ontario, and they learn quickly and well."

One of the first graduates of the MSAC program is now the assistant tower chief at Brackett. Marvin Shappi took his work-experience training at Ontario International, then worked at March AFB and Torrance before joining the permanent staff at Brackett.

Ted Ortega, another graduate of the MSAC aero program, is also serving at Brackett, as is John Dyke, a current work-experience student.

Carol Leif and Ron Babish, who took their hands-on training at Brackett this year, have just been hired by the FAA. Leif is now at Fox Field, Lancaster, and Babish is in Ukiah.

John DuMiller is an air traffic specialist at the Ontario Terminal and Radar Approach Control (TRACON) facility. He trained at Brackett, then was hired there as a full time controller, before going to Ontario.

DuMiller assisted in the development of the air traffic lab at the college, and was its first supervising technician, helping new students learn the techniques of terminal and en-route radio control.

Galloway said the training in the FAA facilities greatly augments the students' on-campus class work. The work-experience allows students to monitor all air traffic controller functions, including ground and flight control, flight data information, weather, pilot briefings, and radar centers.

"Our students are expected to maintain above average grades in all their classroom work and perform in an exceptional manner in their work experience at the FAA facilities," Galloway said.

Following successful completion of all requirements in the cooperative program, MSAC students are eligible for their FAA interviews and for advanced training at the FAA academy in Oklahoma City. Students receive normal trainees' pay during their work-experience and Academy training.

World War II planes slated for Chino Airport program

Those attending the second annual Gathering of Eagles Aug. 25 and 26 at the Chino airport are in for an aeronautical treat.

The Gathering of Eagles is actually a show of World War II airpower featuring exotic one of a kind aircraft such as the world only flying Japanese Zero.

The Zero has just returned from a tour of its homeland and will be a featured performer with a competition between it and a P-51 Mustang, then it will fly in simulated combat with its WW II nemesis the F4U Corsair and the Gruman Hellcat.

The featured attraction again this year will be the Ghost Squadron of the famous Confederate Air Force and their spectacular "TORA, TORA, TORA" act. This re-enactment of the raid on Pearl Harbor includes mock Zeros and Kates performing a raid in front of the audience, complete with noisy and colorful pyrotechnics. Included in the Tora, Tora act is the famous one-wheel attempted landing by a B-17 while a single American fighter tries to fight off the attackers.

Also returning for their second appearance at the gathering is the Condors, the Civil Air Patrol Squadron.

There will also be a number of rare aircraft shown on the ground and in the air. Some of these aircraft such as the 0-47 Observation plane, the P-26 Peashooter and P-35 Seversky are the only flyable versions left.

This year will be known as the "year of the bomber" at the gathering. In keeping with this theme the B-29 from Oakland will again fly at the show. Also scheduled to fly are one of the rare examples of the B-24 Liberator.

Advance tickets are on sale at Ticketron and from City of Hope chapter members.

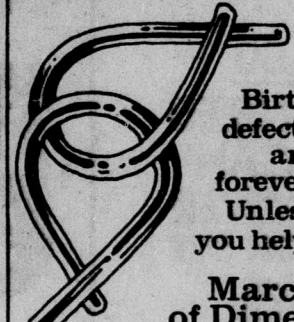

The aircraft will be on display for close up inspection. Gates open at 8 a.m. both days. For more information, call 738-6961.

World War II aircraft will take to the skies above Chino Aug. 25 and 26 in a re-enactment of combat techniques between the only flyable Japanese Zero and an American P-51 Mustang. The air show at the Chino Airport begins at 8 a.m. both days.

Educators discuss effects of Proposition 13

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

The most frustrating effect of Proposition 13 is that the public seems to want more and more of everything for less and less money, education experts said Tuesday.

Education experts, researchers and lobbyists came together at the Claremont Colleges Tuesday to discuss the effects of Proposition 13 on public education.

People voted for Proposition 13 to cut the costs of public education, yet continue to expect schools to be the panacea of the public, the experts said.

"Finances have been taken over by the state while control is still being sought locally," said Mary Jane Merrill, past president of the local chapter of the League of Women Voters.

Proposition 13 forced the cutback of many special programs but gave local school districts no flexibility to continue providing services, Merrill said.

People seem ignorant of the fact that since the state now funds as much as 80 percent of a school district's budget, it can impose unfavored requirements, she said.

"People are now asking schools to do what they used to ask God to do," said Howard Harrison, superintendent of the Santa Ana Unified School District.

They are dissatisfied and want schools to return to the basics of reading, writing and mathematics, Merrill added.

"We don't actually have to return to the basics," said Harrison, "but we do need to re-emphasize in the elementary grades that children must be literate."

Texts, classes, curriculums and competency tests will become more widely standardized in an effort by schools to become responsive, he said.

Although he advocated deemphasizing special programs, Harrison said he supported continued development of bilingual education.

All other conference panel members said bilingual education programs should be stressed, and noted the state legislature seems to agree.

There is disagreement, however, on which bill currently before the state legislature would best accomplish those goals, panel members indicated.

Assembly Bills 507 and 690 would both continue the development of bilingual education, but they contain similar provisions. They may now be rewritten into one bill.

Assembly Bill 507, authored by Peter Chacon, D-San Diego, is generally considered to be more flexible, said Elizabeth Foster, bilingual specialist and lobbyist.

AB 507 gives school districts the ability to train teachers, test students and develop programs under less strict guidelines, within a four-year period, Foster said.

In contrast, AB 690, authored by Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, requires that a core program be set up at every school with identified non-English and limited-English speaking students, Foster indicated.

Without the flexibility to join classes and create broader, districtwide programs, and without the ability to train teachers the way they see fit, districts may end up spending more under AB 690, without additional money from the state, she indicated.

The main problem with any legislation related to bilingual education is that "it's the progeny of controversy because it's a reaction to the failure of traditional education to address the needs of all students," said Rafael Estupinian, bilingual program compliance administrator.

Several current bilingual education bills require committees be set up at schools to help direct programs, Merrill added, and this encourages greater parent participation.

Claremont trustees ok budget increases

Claremont school trustees Friday adopted a 1979-80 publication budget 7.2 percent larger than the budget for the past fiscal year.

The budget has been increased by approximately $1.1 million over the tentative budget, bringing the total to $14,652,559, according to Charles R. Abbott, business manager for the Claremont Unified School District.

The 1977-78 budget was $14,003,724.

While the budget has been increased this year, the enrollment is expected to drop 167 students, from 6,105 during the past year to 5,946 this fall.

Abbott said there are still a number of fine points which are to be worked out in regard to the new school finance and budget legislation during an additional county-wide technical workshop this weekend.

Among the increases in the budget items was about $100,000 in support service programs. Of this, funds will be spent to fill an administrative post which was vacant during the past year.

Abbott said that in spite of the district's energy conservation program, the utility bills are expected to increase about $46,000.

On the other hand, the cost of driver education is expected to drop from $40,468 this past year to $29,700 during the next year.

Superintendent Richard S. Kirkendall explained that fewer students are now in the classes where driver education is offered.

"We've passed our peak of the largest class. Enrollment in the high school grades is dropping a little each year," he said.

Items which had been considered for elimination but now have been retained include mini projects, a media clerk at the district library, special funding for library and media improvements and board and administrative conference expenses.

Items which were not added back into the budget included adult education allowance or fees, an extra teacher assigned to El Roble school and $10,000 for specific building maintenance projects. These three options would have added another $47,500 to the budget.

The board also adopted the cafeteria budget and announced that no price increases in food costs is planned this year.

Kirkendall noted that only 11 percent of the proposed school district budget will come from local taxes. In pre-Proposition 13 budgets, he said, about 50 percent of the district's budget came from local revenue.

In other action, the trustees agreed to a recommendation that bookkeeping procedures by the Claremont High School Associated Student Body business office be revamped to allow stricter control of funds and expenditures.

The trustees also agreed to a request from the District Advisory Committee that it be involved in the beginning integration programs along with other interested and involved groups.

Claremont 'Y' starts project

"Sunrise - Sunset" is the name the Claremont YMCA has chosen to represent the single-parent family youth-senior citizen project at the Mount San Antonio Gardens Retirement Home.

Children between the ages of 6 and 14 are picked up at their homes by Lois Connou, the coordinator and outreach counselor, at 8:30 a.m. and returned home at 11:30 a.m. on Friday mornings. During the two hours at the gardens, the children are kept busy with arts and crafts, story-telling, nature walks, games, sharing of travel experiences in foreign countries, and refreshments. Those ladies most active are Miss Ruth Rickerby (the program director), Miss Margorie Armstrong, Miss Caroline Gould,

Miss Ida Wagner and Mrs. Mary Rottman.

The catalysts for this project include Joe Zakem, executive director of the YMCA, Mrs. Cay Griffith, member of the Claremont Community Coordinating Council, and Mrs. Elizabeth Vieg and Mrs. Jan Weinberger who are on the Community Relations Committee at Mount San Antonio Gardens. The purpose of their collaborative efforts is to bring together the talents and resources of senior citizens to help meet the presently unmet needs of single-parent family children.

College gets $2 million gift of stock

The second largest gift in its history has been awarded Claremont Men's College by Mr. and Mrs. John C. "Jack" Dengler of Del Rio, Texas, according to college president Jack L. Stark. The $2 million gift, the White Sun Guest Ranch capital stock, became effective in late May.

"The Dengler's gift ranks as the largest life income gift ever made to the college," said Stark. "Eventually it will be a magnificent addition to the college's endowment. Speaking for the board of trustees as well as our college staff, we wish to publicly thank the Denglers for this fine gift."

His love of boats and boating led Dengler to establish his present business, Inland Discount Marine, a boating firm with four locations in Texas. He started building the White Sun Guest Ranch in 1946. Comprised of 41 acres in Rancho Mirage near Palm Springs, the ranch was personally run by the Denglers.

Prior to moving to California, Dengler in 1933 founded

SITA World Travel. SITA was discontinued during World War II, then reactivated and expanded in the years immediately following. SITA maintained offices in 35 cities and countries around the world and did by far the largest volume of worldwide travel in the field. Dengler sold the operation to the Diner's Club in 1968 when charter travel started to change the industry.

A native of New York City, Dengler attended Hamilton College and Columbia University where he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees. He had begun his doctoral studies at the University of California, Los Angeles, at the time of Pearl Harbor. Subsequently he became involved in the war effort, serving as director of priorities for Northrop Aircraft. He later directed a War Manpower Utilization Study for the Aircraft War Production Council consisting of all of the major West Coast Air Manufacturers.

Margaret Buchanan, Upland deputy city clerk, hangs one of four paintings by Dorothy Jean Palmer in Mayor George Gibson's office-gallery.

Color Rhythms hang in office

Paintings collectively titled "Color Rhythms" by Dorothy Jean Palmer of Upland are on display through Aug. 24 in the mayor's office-gallery of Upland City Hall, 460 N. Euclid Ave.

Visitors may view the paintings during regular city hall hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Palmer, an Upland native, said, "My paintings are titled 'Color Rhythms' because they are similar to a melody that is stated and then repeated over and over. The pieces at first appear to be very simple, but upon closer scrutiny develop into complex statements of form and content."

Palmer was the 1978-79 president of the Claremont branch of the National League of American Pen Women. She is listed in World Who's Who of Women and was selected this year for the International Biographical Association.

Her works have received honors and been selected in juried shows throughout the area. She is a member of several art associations.

Her solo exhibits have appeared at the Claremont Graduate School, Pomona City Library, Ontario City Library, St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Upland and Upland Public Library.

Palmer received her bachelor's degree from Stanford University and her master's from Claremont Graduate School.

Writing about her work, she said, "I have long been interested in colors and the way in which they relate to each other. I also have a strong emotional attachment to music, which to me has much in common with painting. My paintings, therefore, relate color and music."

"A good painting will suggest a certain rhythm in much the same way as music does. Color can lend a work an emotional or expressive quality. High intensities of bright colors can evoke a sense of excitement, while low intensities and somber colors suggest serenity and calmness."

She added, "In my paintings, I use one basic theme to suggest space. It consists of a simple geometric form in which horizontal lines are first arranged in a matrix to provide a strong background. Many vertical lines are then juxtaposed over them to give a feeling of spatial depth, as if one were looking at a landscape without end."

Palmer has strong roots in Upland. Her father, William Beatty, was chairman of the Upland Planning Commission for many years and also served as president of the board of directors of the San Antonio Water Co.

Her next exhibit will appear at Bric's Gallery in Los Angeles, and she is currently studying sculpture with Betty Davenport Ford in Claremont.

Commenting on "Color Rhythms," she said, "There is a certain geometric balance of mass and void formed by the juxtaposition of the various elements in these paintings. They possess a separate organization (each is complete in itself), but all contribute a significant part of the whole."

Upland Mayor George Gibson and his wife, Louise, began bringing art exhibits to city hall early this year.

Blowin' in the wind

Prosperity and stability seen for state's dairies

California's dairy industry can look forward to a period of relative stability and prosperity, according to a study released by Bank of America.

In its "Milk Industry Report," the bank says consumption of most milk products is expected to reflect primarily population growth in the state.

"However," added Eric Nicerson, associate economist and author of the report, "volume growth will be more rapid for individual producers, processors, and distributors as a result of the declining numbers of competing firms at each marketing level."

In addition, he said, "The emergence of California's dairy industry as a year-round supplier of a full-line of manufactured dairy products will enhance growth potential."

California ranks second among U.S. states in milk production, according to the report. However, California generally leads the nation in both average production per cow and size of average herd.

The state's milk producers can expect profitable operating conditions over the next two or three years, says the report. They will be aided by rising cattle prices, a relatively high milk-to-feed price ratio, and higher federal milk support prices.

The favorable conditions will encourage milk production through herd expansion and high rates of concentrate feeding, with total milk production in California expected to increase about 2.5 to 3.5 percent per year. With milk usage in Class I (fluid or drinking milk), Class II (principally cottage cheese), and Class III

(frozen desserts, such as ice cream) expected to grow along with the population — or about 1.5 to 2 percent per year — milk available for Class IV (butter, cheese and dried milk) products will continue to increase.

The bank's report notes that existing producers will be able to take advantage of their improved cash flow and equity position to increase the genetic quality and size of their herds, buy new equipment, modernize facilities, and retire debt.

The trend to larger and fewer producers will continue, says the report. New entry of market grade producers will be limited due to the very large investment required in quote (in effect, a state-issued franchise to sell market grade milk), cows, land, buildings, and equipment.

Producer cooperatives will continue to be a vigorous marketing force. They will be a major source of new Class IV processing capacity in the San Joaquin Valley and Southern California. As a consequence, cooperatives may attract new members from milk producers presently under contract with integrated retail grocery chains or proprietary milk companies.

"However," says the report, "there is no indication that a 'super co-op' will emerge in the foreseeable future to monopolize the state's milk supply."

Operating margins are expected to improve for milk producers and distributors, according to the report. These margins have generally been very narrow in recent years because of state pricing regulations and fierce competition among companies for market share. With removal of state resale pricing regulations and the recent adoption of a formula to price Class I milk, operating margins are expected to improve. In fact, this anticipated improvement in profitability will encourage milk companies to make the new investment in their plants needed to increase their cost competitiveness, says the report.

Booklet gives 84 tips on restoring houses

Thinking about restoring an old house? Don't over-do it, cautions Clem Labine, editor of The Old-House Journal.

The growing interest in restoring old buildings is leading some people to do more than they have to. In their enthusiasm, they rip out and replace a lot of the old material. This is not only expensive; it also damages the architectural and historical character of the building. And it lowers the long-term market value.

Now there's a set of practical guidelines to help homeowners restore in the least expensive and most authentic fashion. The guidelines are contained in a four-page brochure just published by The Old-House Journal. The brochure lists nine basic principles for proper restoration...then follows with 84 specific do's and don't's.

The key to successful restoration is knowing how to "read" a building. This reading tells what is essential to the original character of the house...and what needs to be repaired or re-created.

The 84 guidelines in the new brochure help make an informed appraisal. Though designed primarily for houses, the new brochure can also be useful in restoring old commercial buildings.

To obtain a free single copy of "Guidelines For Restoring Old Buildings," write: The Old-House Journal, Dept. 80, 69A Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, NY 11217.

MARK III TRADE-IN PROGRAM

We have instituted a trade-in program that will enable you to move right into a Mark III Home without the uncertainty and delay of selling your present home first. Obviously, your home must qualify. See one of our salesmen for details.

These Mark III Homes are not as large as palaces and they are not priced like palaces either, but here and there they feel like palaces—in spaces that soar above you—in refined architectural detail—in bedroom suites that seem fit for a sultan, with separate sitting rooms and inside garden spas. Outside the homes are spacious too, with plenty of room for a large pool.

Virtually all of those luxury features that are usually "optional extras" are already included in the price — over $18,000 worth to be exact. If you've always wanted it, you can be almost certain Mark III has it.

State budget reduction brings cuts

Cal Poly Pomona's enrollment is expected to increase this year, but faculty and staff will be reduced because of state budget cuts.

Nearly 50 faculty and staff positions will be eliminated due to Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s veto of a budget that had been approved by the state Legislature.

Cal Poly is one of two schools in the 19-campus system affected by the budget cuts that has increased enrollment — a situation that campus officials consider ironic.

In order to implement the reductions, some positions will be shifted and reductions will be made in temporary and part-time personnel.

Class sizes are expected to increase and faculty is expected to teach more classes, campus officials say.

In addition to personnel cuts and class restructuring, supply and services will be cut by about $160,000.

The supply cuts mean loss of equipment in almost all departments.

Faculty was granted a 14 percent wage increase this year.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE COMES TO TOWN
WITH THE PRECISION HAIRCUT!

The Precision Haircut Explained Precisely.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for sixteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

Worse inflation forecast when retirement comes

By DONALD COLEMAN
Copley News Service
If you think it's tough to make ends meet today, just wait until retirement — the pinch of inflation will even be tighter.
Even those now living comfortably in high-paying jobs will find, in retirement, that company pensions and Social Security will be no match for the prospects of double-digit inflation, according to a top executive of Merrill Lynch, Pierce Fenner and Smith, the New York

brokerage firm.

At least 165 percent more income will be needed 20 years from now to maintain your present standard of living, Don Underwood, Merrill Lynch's vice president and manager for retirement planning, said in an interview.

"That's almost three times what you now live on," Underwood said. "It could even be greater, since these are conservative estimates."

Social Security alone can't be counted on, and,
while company pension
plans are good, Underwood said, they aren't enough to maintain present standards of living, either.

Retirement incomes for some may be so meager that they will become welfare burdens on the state, a possible situation that is getting increased attention from Congress.

Under consideration,
Underwood said, are plans that will encourage setting aside money that will grow through investments and also will be sheltered from taxes.

Such shelters — through Individual Retirement Accounts and Keogh plans — are now available to workers who aren't already covered by company pension plans.

Congress is thinking about extending the IRA and Keogh-type shelters to all workers, Underwood said.

up an IRA in addition to your corporate plan," the executive said.

Under consideration is
this type of plan:
Suppose your company's pension plan already has set aside $4,000 annually for your retirement. When you retire, say 15 years from now, that figure would have increased to $11,000.

The difference between the two figures is $7,000.
The government would allow that amount to be placed now into a tax-deferred investment plan
from an employee's personal savings.

Income from the investment in the shelter would not be taxed until after retirement — when the income would be in a lower tax bracket.

"I think Congress in a couple of years will adopt such an investment plan for a person's retirement," Underwood said.

"It's an interesting concept. It's a trust for the living and not for the dead.
Discussions are going on in congressional committees."

Common stock is still a good investment and will prove to be a wise move as the economy moves through the 1980s, Underwood said.

Hello high Treasury rates. Goodbye minimum deposits!

August Rate: 7.95%. Yield: 8.27%.

For many savers, getting close to T-Bill earnings used to be close to impossible.
What with the $10,000 minimum deposit, it seemed only the rich got richer.

Now, thanks to changes in government regulations, we are able to offer a brand new money market savings account that's about as close as you can get to our T-Bill Plus account.

We call it our 4-Year Treasury Account.
There's a new rate every month. And the minimum balance is whatever you'd like it to be.

The rate stays the same for the term of the account. Interest is compounded daily. And, an account opened by the 10th earns interest from the first of the month (if held until quarter's end).

Come in and ask us about our new 4-Year Treasury Account. You'll see. It's goodbye big deposit, hello big interest!

While you're in, ask us about the other nice new benefits we're offering.

No minimum balances.

From now on, you can get any certificate account you'd like by saving any amount you'd like.

(Exception: the
$10,000 minimum
6-month T-Bill Plus account.)

Higher interest.

From now on, all passbook accounts will be earning 5.50%, compounded daily for a yield of 5.65%!

The Gold Card.

A California exclusive. We're offering an honest-to-goodness benefit to savers who qualify for the American Express Gold Card. We call it the 1% advantage.
Come in and find out how good it really is!

Welcome to the FINANCIAL FEDERATION family.

We're part of Financial Federation — a two billion dollar family of eleven savings and loan associations up and down the state. Come on in and meet the family.
